With the deadline for registering for the November election set Oct. 3, it is interesting to note what will be at stake in the election. Everyone is pretty well aware that it will involve the election of a new president and vice president.

On the official ballots it will be a simple matter to vote for the two top office holders. One "X" in the box will mark the voters' choice for a slate of electors committed to either the Democratic candidates, the Republican candidates or the Socialist Labor Party.

Other Ballots

On another ballot, voters will be faced with a choice of seven candidates for the U. S. Senate seat held by incumbent Senator Harry F. Byrd. The list is headed by the name of Byrd, followed by J. B. Brayman, Milton L. Green, Richard A. May, Robert E. Poole, Jr., James W. Respess and Willie T. Wright.

On the same ballot as the Senatorial candidates are two candidates for the U. S. House of Representatives from the Fourth District. They are Watkins M. Abbitt, incumbent from Appomattox, who is chairman of the state Democratic Committee; and S. W. Tucker, of Emporia and Richmond, an attorney who has been active in a number of NAACP cases throughout the state.

Voters will also have another choice in the Nov. 3 election. This will be to mark the ballots For or Against a proposed constitutional amendment. The choice will be as follows: "Shall section 28 of the Constitution of Virginia be amended so as to permit write-in voting in other than primary elections and to prescribe the manner in which ballots may be marked in such cases?"

Appomattox voters will have still another ballot, on which they must mark their choice for a director of the Soil Conservation District. It sounds like a lot of voting . . . and it is . . . and it's important too.
